Los Angeles Bantamweight Peerless Leader, Who Is to Intends to Put Albuquerque Lad Through a Course of Training and Feel Him Out.

The question asked by many local fans, as to whether or not Manuel Stern, a local 128-pounder, has the goods as a fighter, is to be proven within the next few days. Hatting Chiro has commented to put stern through the paces and discover if the local lad has the making of a first-chass hattler. Chico is a veteran trial hoose and has proved a stumbling block to many appiring lightweights, even if he is a bantam. Stern's friends may be has a punch in both hands as a fast. Manuel on two or three coccasions has demonstrated that he has a punch in at least one hand. A striking demonstration werean the occasion when he stopped Barber Roblinson, a local celebrity, in a round and a haif. Robinson had previously fought twelve battles and gained every decision.
